Applications are invited for the position of Editor-in-Chief, Journal of Breath Research (JBR) is the only international peer-reviewed journal focusing on all aspects of breath science, with the major focus on analysis of exhaled breath in physiology and medicine, and the diagnosis and treatment of breath odours. It is the official Journal of the International Association for Breath Research (IABR) and the International Society for Breath Odor Research, and is published by IOP Publishing. Further information about the journal can be found at www.iopscience.org/jbr.

IOP is now seeking a new Editor-in-Chief to guide the journal through its next phase of development, building on the success of the late Professor Anton Amann.

Applications are invited from specialists in any branch of breath research. Experience of the publishing process would also be an advantage – ideally gained while serving as a member of an Editorial Board, while an extensive publications record is naturally a prerequisite. Joint applications will be considered. Applicants need not be based in the UK. Full editorial support and training will be provided.

The post is initially for a period of three years, and carries an honorarium. Applications should include a full CV, a letter explaining your interest in the post, your views of the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats for the journal, and an outline of what your editorial strategy and vision would be.

Further details of the position can be obtained from the journal’s Publisher, Dr Antigoni Messaritaki (jbr@iop.org).

Applications should be addressed to Estelle Hartley-McDonald, JBR, IOP Publishing, Temple Circus, Temple Way, Bristol BS1 6HG, UK, or e-mail jbr@iop.org, by 31 March 2015. Interviews will be held in May/June.
